Introducing our People Strategy

The Council recognises and values the people as their greatest asset and the People Strategy details how we attract, retain and develop within the Council. It also drives cultural and organisational change, leadership, talent management along with continuous development of both the people and the organisation. Linked to the objectives set down in the Corporate Plan and Transformation Programme, it identifies the people management implications and makes it clear that all employees are vital to the delivery of improving services for local communities.

To be effective, the People Strategy cannot operate in isolation. It will need to reflect external influences such as the Local Government Pay and Workforce Strategy, national employment negotiations and trends in the marketplace.

The People Strategy is an integral part of the council's performance management framework. It provides the link between valuing and developing people, with improving and developing services and enabling local leadership.

Our People Strategy

What does it mean for the communities of Ashfield?

The People Strategy ensures that we deploy the right number of trained, skilled and motivated people to deliver high quality services within the community.

What does it mean for employees?

It clearly demonstrates that the council is committed to its employees and their ongoing development. As an employee, linking your own development to the development of your role and service will ensure that you contribute to the achievement of the objectives within the People Strategy. As these are linked directly to the Corporate Plan and Transformation Programmes of the council, your contribution will enable the Council to achieve its objectives.

How is the Strategy's contribution assessed?

Central to the People Strategy is an action plan for each council that includes milestones with measurable targets which are monitored on a quarterly basis by corporate management and embedded within the performance management framework via service plans and employee personal development review (PDR) process which embed the Competencies and Values of the organisation.

What are the Corporate Values?

To ensure we deliver high-quality public services we have adopted a set of Corporate Values which underpin the successful delivery of our priorities. How we work is as important as what we do.

- ✓ People Focussed - Putting people at the heart of what we do
- ✓ Honest - Being honest with people in an open and professional way
- ✓ Proud - Being proud that Ashfield is a positive place to live, work and visit
- ✓ Ambitious - We are ambitious about Ashfield's future

What is the Competency Framework?

The competency framework covers two areas Leadership and employees both support the delivery of People Strategy and sets out how we want people to behave at work and puts the Corporate Values at the heart of everything we do.

The Competency Framework for employees includes five competencies: Seeing the bigger picture, Changing, learning and improving, Communicating, Team working and Delivering value for money and quality services.

The framework for Leadership competencies is made up of three themes: Strategic, People and Performance with ten competencies listed:
